Alex. Henry's Travels.

Notes taken from Travel & Adventures of W. Alex. Henry, published 30 October 1809. N.B. Mr. Henry was attached to Gen. Amherst's Army when in 1760 he came down the St. Lawrence from Oswego on Lake Ontario & captured Montreal.

On their way down the dangerous rapids of "Les Cedres, from their ignorance of the proper channels they lost several batteaux laden with provisions, ammunition, &c and 100 men. Mr. H. lost three batteaux of his own laden with merchandise.

Chap 1., p 12. Aug 3rd 1761. He sent off his canoes from Montreal to Mackinac. His canoes were $5\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms long, extreme breadth $4\frac{1}{2}$ ft carried 60 pieces or parcels (various merchandize fitted for the Indian trade) from 90 to 100 lbs weight forming with the baggage (men's private bags, which served as portmanteaux) & provisions to Mackinac about 4 tons' weight — and crew of 8 men. Reached Mackinac in the beginning of September.

Page 77 to. June 4th, 1763. The Indians on this day, from a well concerted plan devised by the memorable Pontiac, a chief at Detroit, took the Fort of Mackinac, & finally killed Major Strington and about 100 troops, besides several English gentlemen, traders, Mr. Henry was finally saved after dangers & escapes vastly less credible than fiction, & indeed true. (Chap 14th p. 117) Acch. of Mr. Henry's first & formal interview with the Indians of Michilimackinac Sept. 1761. At two o'clock in the afternoon, the Chippeways (Sautaux) came to my house about 60 in number. They walked in single file, each with a tomahawk in one hand & a Knife in the other, naked from the waist upwards, a few excepted who carried a blanket loosely thrown over their shoulders. Their faces blackened with charcoal their bodies with white clay. Some with rings thrust through the bridge of the nose, others with feathers in bunches on their heads. It may well be imagined what were my sensations at the approach of this uncouth, if not frightful assembly. The Chief entered first - The rest followed who, on a signal from him seated themselves on the floor. The chief, Minn-va-ba-nah was about fifty years of age, six feet high, his countenance an indescribable mixture of good and evil, looked steadily at me where I sat in state with two interpreters one on each side & several of my men (Canadians) behind me. After graciously smoking their pipes, the Chief conversed with Mr. Champion, my associate, & remarked that "the English ~~were~~ do indeed seem to be brave men, not afraid of death, since they dared to come so early, as I had done, among their enemies. The Chief, Minn-va-ba-nah, rose with a few strings of wampum beads held in one hand and thus addressed me

"Englishman, it is to you I speak - listen to me. - Englishman, you know the French King is our father - He promised to be such; & we, in return, promised to be his children. This promise we have kept. Englishman, it is you who have made war with this, our father. You are his enemy. How then can you venture among us, his children? Are you ignorant that his enemies are ours? Englishman, we are informed that the King of the French is old & infirm, & that being fatigued with making war upon your nation is fallen asleep and during this interval you have possessed yourselves of Canada. But this sleep will soon be ended. I think I already hear him stirring & enquiring for his children - the Indians & when he does awake what will become of you? He will destroy you utterly! Englishman, though you have conquered the French, you have not conquered us! We are not slaves! These lakes, these forests, & these mountains have descended to us from our ancestors. They are our inheritance & we will part with them to no one. Your nation supposes that we, like the white people, cannot live without bread, - and pork - & beef! Do you not know that the Great Spirit & Master of life has

"Englishman, our father the French King employed our young men to make war upon yr nation. In these wars many have been killed; & it is our custom to retaliate until such times as the spirits of the slain are satisfied. But the spirits of the slain may be appeased in two ways; the first is by pouring out the blood, the blood of those by whom they were slain; or, by covering the bodies of the dead; & thus to allay the resentment of their surviving friends. This is done by making presents."

"Englishman, your King has never sent us any presents, nor entered into any treaty with us, - therefore he & we are still at war; and until he does we must consider that we have no father, nor friend among the white men. Thank the French King. But for you we consider that you have ventured yr life among us with the expectation that we would not molest you. - You do not come armed with the intention of making war on us: - you come in peace to trade with us, to supply us with the necessaries of which we are in want. We shall regard you, therefore, as a brother and you may sleep tranquilly, without fear of the Chippeways. - As a token of friendship, we present you with this pipe to smoke."

A Curious
Circumstance
June 3rd 1763

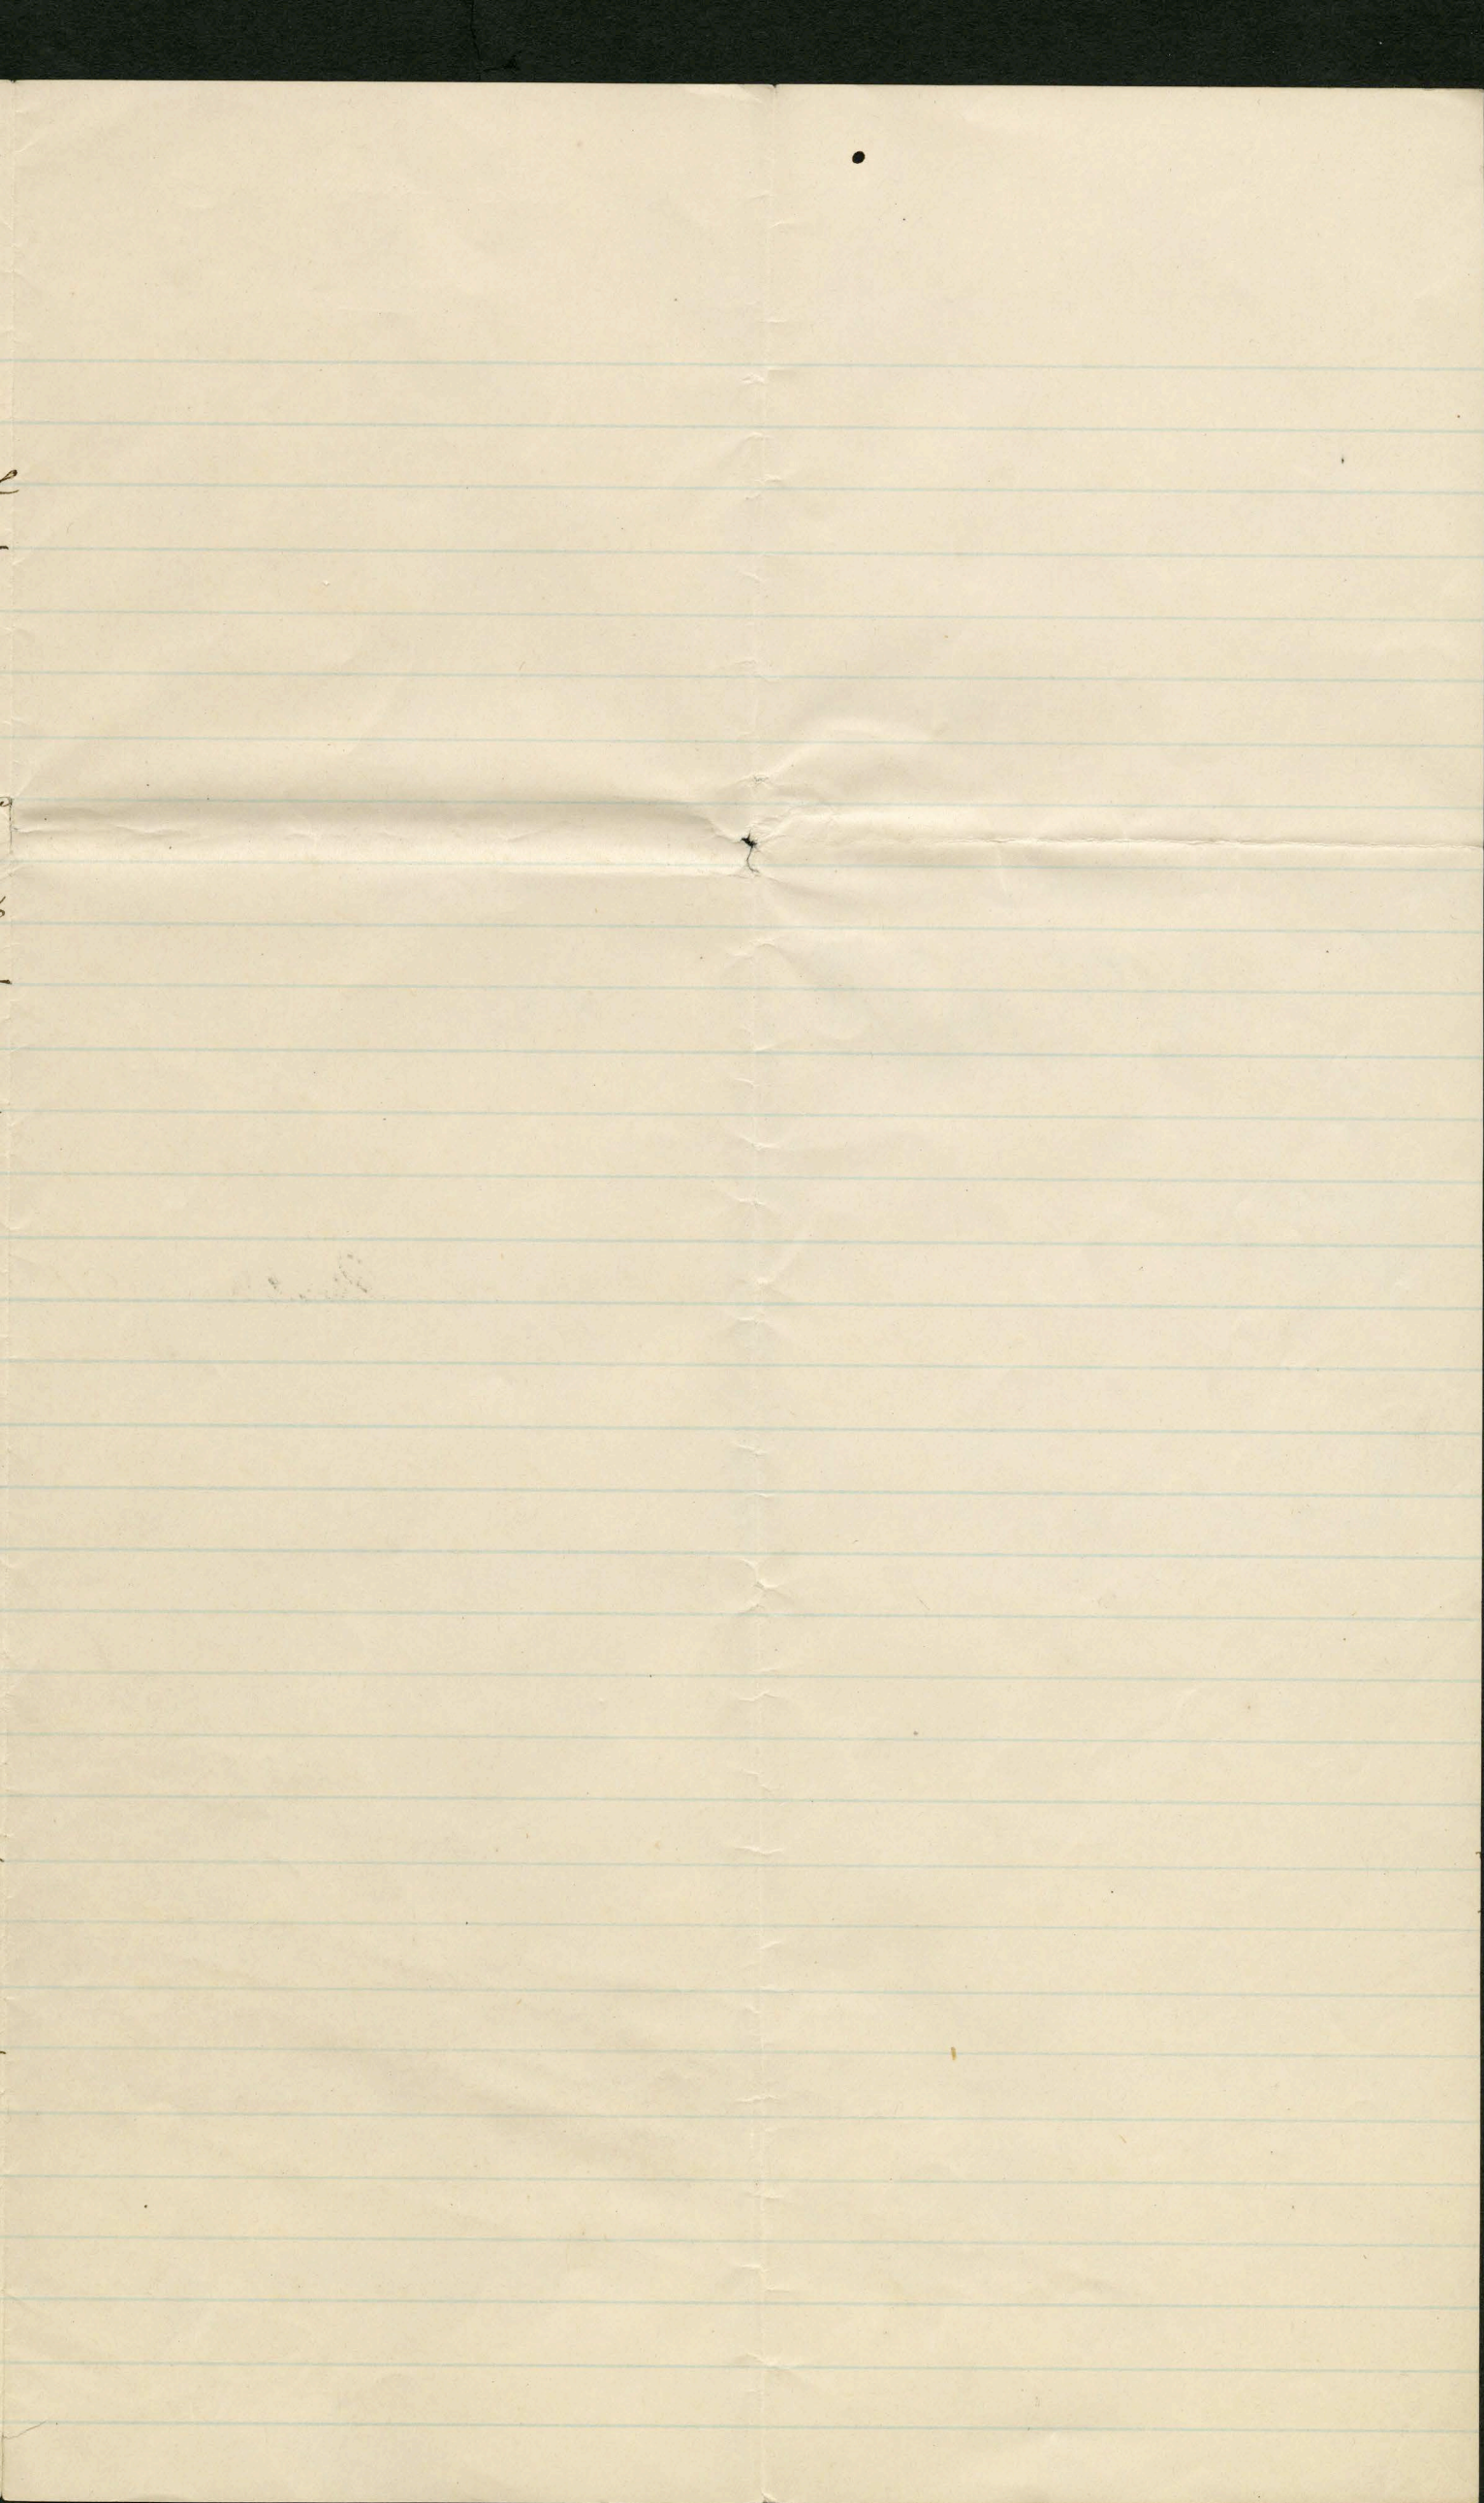

Shortly after my arrival at Mackinac, the preceding year a Chippeway, named Nawatam, began to come frequently to see me showing in his demeanour strong marks of personal regard.

After continuing this for some time, he came to see me one day bringing his whole family with him and a large present of furs, sugar & dried meat. He laid the whole in a heap & addressed me thus, "Some years ago I observed a fast devoting myself according to the custom of my nation to solitude & mortification of the body on hopes of obtaining from the Great Spirit protection thro' all my days. That on this occasion he had dreamed of having adopted an Englishman as his son, brother, and friend; and that the moment he first beheld me he recognized me as the person the G. Spirit sent out to him for a brother & hoped I would not refuse his present & he would forever consider me as one of his family. Soon after this he went off for his winter hunt. Chevalmont had now elapsed since this occurrence (June 1762) & I had almost forgotten all about him when on the 2nd day of June 1763, he again came to my house but in a temper of mind visibly melancholy & thoughtful, and without an-swering in a direct manner my enquiries as to his health &c. He said he was very sorry to see me here returned from the South (St. Mary's) & that he intended to go to that place with all his family on the morrow & entreated me to accompany him. He had been much disturbed during the winter with the noise of evil birds; if the Commandant had heard the news? that there were numbers of Indians looking about & several showed themselves in the Fort. "Altho' I had now made such progress in the Indian language as to be able to converse tolerably with them, it is so extravagantly figurative I paid not sufficient attention. After long, painful & ineffectual efforts to prevail on me to follow them they left me with tears in their eyes! (This is a phenomenon in the Indian character) Sometimes we may see their eyes humid but very rarely. That night I thought seriously of Wa-watain's urgently requesting me to leave with him for the South, the numbers of strange Indians that flocked in, the current reports of the destruction of all the English, but could not bring myself to believe it. I, at last, fell asleep - & the next morning, 4th June, was wakened in the midst of the least sign of the dreadful tragedy, so near at hand, in which I was to have such a share!!! The Indians to a great number collected & divided into two parties to play the game of Lacrosse. Major Whittington, of the — was invited to see the game as also the soldiers & all the English. I was writing some letters for Montreal. Hearing the "war cry" I went to the window & saw the Indians knocking down & scalping all the English. I seized my gun to run out as soon as I should hear the drum beat the alarm - but no, the Major so absolutely ridiculed the idea of an attack that when Wth DuRoi & others told him of it he menaced to put the first person who should hereafter dare to mention it. I slept over the low fence between Longlake & me & found the whole family at the window gazing out upon the scene of blood before them. I asked Lauglade for a place to hide myself: he returned to the window shrugging his shoulders saying, "que voulez vous que je fasse?" But a Pawnee woman, a slave of Lauglade's beckoned me to her. I followed. She opened a door leading to the garret, & shutting it took out the key. Thro' an aperture I saw the dead, scalped & mangled, & the dying writhing with shrieks under the knife & the tomahawk; the Indians scooping up the blood with both hands & drinking it. Soon, a last cry, "All is finished." At the moment I heard several Indians enter & enquire for me, if there were any Englishman in the house. Lauglade said he knew not, but they might look & brought them to the garret door. As they were delayed a few moments for the key, I hid myself in a heap of bark disks used for collecting ^{sap} ~~sap~~ ^{drains}. They hid themselves entered before I had time to completely hide myself, four men with tomahawks still dripping with blood. They went round the garret several times & once, one was so near that I almost thought he touched me. There was a feather bed meanwhile I laid - a shower of rain coming on & Lauglade came up to stop some leaks & was surprised to see me. She told me not to be uneasy, for as most of the English were killed I might escape.

At my desire, she sent me a little water to drink. Thus, I passed the night as one must suppose. The next morning I heard again several Indians enter. Telling Lauglade they had not found me among the dead therefore I must be hid somewhere. Mr. Lauglade becoming alarmed for her own safety got him to show me. They came up. Thinking my door now sealed - I rose & presented myself to them. Winnoway, a chief, half drunk, seized me by the collar, with a large carving knife in his hand. Staring at me steadfastly in the eyes, for a few moments, he said "I will not kill you"; that he had been in frequent wars with the Eng., & had taken many scalps: that he had lost one brother & I should be named after him, Massiwigan. (i.e. paper, bark or any material to write upon.) He wanted to take me to his tent, but Lauglade prevailed upon him to leave me there, as they were all drunk, until he could find another opportunity to take me away. I returned to the garret, but had hardly been there an hour when one of the Indians who had accompanied Winnoway just before, returned for me saying I must follow him. Langlade, too, said as I was no longer my own master I must obey. But before going out he told me to put take off my clothes which he immediately put on & I being naked had to take his. He drove me before him. But on taking the way to the camp, he seized me by the arm & dragged me about fifty yds to some sand hills. Apprehending his intention to murder I refused to proceed further, & said I had gone far enough. He killed; he said yes, & threw his knife to the hill. I gave his hand a twist & in passing the blow sent him a distance from me and ran with all my might to the Fort, where, seeing Winnoway, I ran to him for protection; & after running two or three times round him, made for Langlade's door which was open, & where, after I had entered, he left me. I returned to the garret, thinking that whatever further trials might await me, providence at all events intended to save me. About ten o'clock at night I was again called down stairs. I went, & to my most agreeable surprise it was to see Major & Etherington, Lieut. Leslie & W. Bostwick. These gentlemen had been taken prisoner the day before, while looking on the game, & the Chiefs fearing they might be killed in the drunken frolic they intended to have sent them to the Fort under guard of the Canadians. Lieut. Lemette & seventy soldiers had been killed, & but twenty Englishmen, ^{including} soldiers, remained now alive! We passed the night together in mutual condolence & had come to the determination to regain the Fort seeing that the Indians were all drunk & outside the Fort. But the French missionary whom we consulted advised us not, as in case of failure, it would exasperate the Indians still more & no dependance could be placed on the Canadians! Thus then the Major & the massacre occurred & thus his incapacity & the means of safety were neglected. W. Tracey was the only English trader who lost his life at the capture of the Fort. Messrs. Sykes, Blomden & Henry Bostwick were taken by the Ottawas; & at the peace, were taken to Montreal & ransomed. Of ninety hostages, seventy were killed - the rest were ultimately liberated.

In 1776 The Provincial Parliament passed a Bill, to which however the Royal Assent was not given till too late, but which finally passed into a law in 1799, granting certain duties to the Crown, whenever the British Act 14 Geo 3 c. 80 / post 14 Geo 3 c. 83, which was the Quebec Act partially repealed, & partially confirmed by the 31 Geo 3 c. 31 / should be repealed.
The produce of these duties would amount to £11 or £12,000 p. ann^m and according to Mr. Deiles would be independent of the Legislature, though Mr. Currieh [p. 166] expresses some hesitation as

On this point. The British Act however has never been repealed, and consequently the Provincial Act has never come into force.

Mr Willard

Sir I was very much mortified when I heard of Mr Irish's Conduct about the order I gave you as it is not my intention to leave a place without paying my bill and thought I had paid you as honourably as if I had paid you silver money, but that dam. Scoundrel had the impudence to deny the Charge any man that will do such a thing as that will still float in the bubble.

But Sir I have some Satisfaction in hearing that you were Satisfied that I delivered the property to the rascal and that he has since acknowledged the debt if this is not the case I shall be at your house this winter and I will bring the rascal to justice if it costs my hundred Dollars— Should he not pay it and you should want your money please to send the account out to Mr Carr, and I will pay it

Head of the AuSable river Illinois 23 February 1835.

My dear Sir I have just returned from St. Louis (and have rec'd. for the first time, Letters & papers from my Canada friends which contain an advertisement of yours, & not doubting but you will be pleased to hear of your distant friend I shall give you a short detail of my adventures in the far west, when I left the brook I came directly to Chicago in Company with Mr. Peck, we remained there a few days and were both pleased with the Town, it is advancing with unparalleled rapidity and in long it be the great Buffalo of the west, I purchased Town Lots to the amount of Two thousand two hundred dollars And now three months have scarcely elapsed and I can take 100 p.c. advance, This Sir I do not say is a fair or proportional advance on Town lots generally but I purchased when times were dull and made excellent selections, Our Canal Bill has passed authorizing this State to construct a Ship Canal from Chicago to the Illinois River a distance of Eighty miles, I have purchased 160 acres of Land with a splendid mill privilege, and a farm of 160 acres more for which I am frequently solicited to set a price, these locations are so situated that the canal must pass through them and when it is completed I believe I shall feel as rich as a Nabob

They must then become very valuable, My nearest Neighbor is five miles off & I am keeping Batchellors Hall with a hiring - No females reside nearer than fifteen miles, this is rather disagreeable but the hopes of gain spur me on. Emigration is going on with wonderful rapidity through the whole State and before next Autumn not a desirable location will be left vacant. I arrived in the exact time & selected a place that many desire. - I have travelled nearly the whole time I have been here & seen most of this State, Indiana & Michigan Territory & a part of Missouri, I find the north part of this State the most desirable, more opportunities for speculation. The great difficulty with me is the want of Capital, but I am determined to have abundance or none at all, We have good wood & prairie, water that is unequalled & an excellent Market, The roads are as good here as in the immediate vicinity of Quebec, people cross the prairies with Carriages & with no guide or path than an Indian Trail & a Compass & Blanket these supplements are what I have used much for the last three months, I have travelled in a treeless Prairie for 30 days & never seen white man or Indian. — The Indians are all about evacuating this State & going West of the Mississippi, we shall soon have it all to ourselves. — I hear that Gillman has committed matrimony, this is odd. — Edgell they say is about to follow suit. I hope he will shake off his fear of women. — Uncle & him are coming out to Illinois in the coming Spring I should be happy to see you with them. Your father might do well to come out here even if he should sell out for Cash at a sacrifice.

If you will write me an account of this a long long letter giving me your Ideas of Town Life, the ~~tribes~~ must be so they will be most thankfully rec^d. pray what are you all doing. — I have told you all I can think of at this time I should think of any thing of importance I shall make a P.S. — my health now was better than I am I arrived here. — Direct your letters to me at Chicago, Illinois Cook County, Care of Dr. Goodhue, I believe in your friend & helper

Dear Sir

What I understood from a Communication had with Mr. Emattiger & myself relative to the winding up of the Estate of Rufus & Davis was as follows viz That I am to collect the Debts still outstanding as speedily as possible, for which I am to receive the sum of Two hundred and fifty pounds, together with any Expenses actually incurred such as Postages, Stationary, travelling Expenses &c. & that I am to be allowed to take or charge a Com^e on all property sent down for sale by those who are indebted to our late firm.
They leave to mention however that I shall by no means consider myself bound to revisit the Upper Province on the Business of the Estate, Should my doing so interfere materially with my own private Interests. - I also beg leave to say that though I have the Interests of the Estate very nearly at heart, as given the intimate Connection there exists between the favourable issue of that business and my own ultimate emancipation from the Thralldom of Debt I ought to have felt I never should have ventured to undertake so heavy a Charge for so trifling a Compensation, had I not laid too heavy a stress upon the Chance of the Commissions promised me being of moment.

Whereas the only two of any consequence that have hitherto been within my reach, I mean the sale of Mr. H. Thurgill's Slaves and of a part of Murritt & Snyders's, have by some unlucky accident slipped through my fingers.
The former I could certainly have secured had I cared to sacrifice the Interests of their owner to my own. — I merely take the liberty of mentioning the foregoing remarks, without however wishing to bring them forward in any shape as an objection to my strictly fulfilling my engagement, to wind up the said Estate on the Terms before mentioned

I remain truly
Dear Sir,
Yr. Most Obedt. Servt.

CONDITIONS OF POLICIES.

- I. Persons desirous of making Assurances, must sign a Proposal, giving reference to the usual Medical Attendant, and to two Private Friends of the Party to be Assured, and the Proposer and Referees must state all particulars in regard to the health and habits of the Party to be Assured. The statements so made shall form the Basis of the Contract, and if these statements, or any part thereof, are not truly and fairly stated, the Policy following thereon shall become void, and all Premiums paid thereon shall be forfeited.
- II. All Persons engaged in Military or Naval Service, and all Persons serving in the Militia, shall be at liberty so to serve without extra Premium, and without the necessity of obtaining Licences from the Company, so long as they remain within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, or within the Colony of Canada. The Directors are empowered to fix the extra Premium for War, or Foreign Service, in all cases which may be supposed to expose the Life Assured to any peculiar hazard.
- III. All Persons whose Lives are Assured, may, in time of Peace, travel in Europe, also cross, in First Class Vessels, to, and from and travel in any part of America north of 38° north latitude; but, if the Assured shall go beyond these Limits without previous leave, the Assurance shall be void, and the Premiums paid shall be forfeited. Policies granted to Persons on their own Lives shall also become void if they die by their own hands (whether Insane or not), or by Duelling, or by the hands of Justice. This, however, does not extend to Policies which have been bona fide assigned to third parties for onerous causes, and of which assignment written notice shall have been given to the Office, not less than One Month previous to the Death, nor does it extend to Assurances effected and held by one Person on the Life of another.
- IV. All Policies that have subsisted for Five Years, shall thereafter be free from objection on the ground of any informal or incorrect Statements, in regard to the Health or Habits of the Parties Assured.
- V. In all Assurances held bona fide upon the Lives of others, Policies shall be free from Forfeiture, on account of Acts or Deeds of the Parties whose Lives are Assured, provided the ordinary Premiums shall have been duly paid, and the Premiums for Extra Risks shall be paid whenever they are ascertained.
- VI. Twenty-one Days are allowed for payment of the Premiums after they become due; and in the event of the party dying, payment within the Twenty-One Days by the Representatives is held sufficient, but if not paid within these Twenty-One Days, the Policies cease to be in force. The Directors may, however, revive Policies which have become void from non-payment of Premium, within Three Calendar Months from the date of the Premiums becoming due, on production of evidence, satisfactory to them, that the Party is in good health, and on payment of a Fine of Ten per cent. on, and in addition to the amount of the Premium.
- VII. All Claimants upon the decease of any Person whose Life shall have been Assured by the Company, must make proof thereof, by Affidavit or Certificate, and give such further information respecting the death, as the Directors shall think reasonable, before admitting the Claim. In case of Dispute, it shall be imperative on the Directors, if required by the Claimant under the Policy, to submit the subject of Dispute to the decision of Two Neutral Persons, one to be named by the Directors, and another by such Claimant; and the two Referees so named, previous to proceeding under the reference, shall agree upon a third, and the decision of the majority of these three Referees shall be Final. Claims become payable Three Calendar Months after satisfactory proof of the Death shall have been admitted by the Directors.

15th Jan'y Yearly

Whereas Michael Twomey, Merchant, Goderich, C. W.

hath effected an Assurance with the Edinburgh Life Assurance Company (Incorporated by Act of Parliament), upon his own Life, for the term of his whole life in the sum of Two hundred Pounds Sterling and hath subscribed, or caused to be subscribed, and delivered into the Office of the said Company, a Proposal and Declaration (which are here specially referred to, and held as repeated, and as forming part of this Policy), bearing date the thirtieth day of January One Thousand Eight Hundred and fifty nine setting forth, amongst other things, his present and general state of health, and that on that day the age of the said Michael Twomey did not exceed thirty four years; and having paid the sum of Five Pounds six shillings to the Directors of the said Company, as the Premium for such Assurance for one year, from the fifteenth day of January One Thousand Eight Hundred and fifty nine,

Now know all men by these presents, That in case the said Assured shall happen to die at any time within the term of One Year, as above set forth, the Capital Stock and Funds of the said Company shall be subject and liable to pay and make good to the Heirs, Executors, or Assignees of the said Assured, within Three Calendar Months after satisfactory proof of the death of the said Assured shall have been made to the Court of Directors of the said Company, the said sum of Two hundred Pounds of the lawful money of Great Britain; together with such farther sum or sums as may, under the regulations of the said Company, have been, from time to time, appropriated as a bonus or addition to this Policy.

And it is hereby further agreed, That this Policy may be continued in force from year to year, until the expiration of the term first above-mentioned, provided the said Assured shall duly pay, or cause to be paid, to the Directors, at the said Office of the said Company, on or before the fifteenth day of January next ensuing, the sum of Five Pounds six shillings and the like sum annually on or before the day aforesaid; which annual payments shall be accepted, at every such period, as the Premium for such Assurance.

Provided always, That the Assurance hereby granted shall, at all times, and under all circumstances, be expressly subject to the several Conditions printed on the back of this Policy, all of which are specially here referred to, and held as repeated: Declaring hereby, that what is set forth in the said Proposal and Declaration, or otherwise, in regard to the said Assurance, shall be the basis of this Contract; and if it shall hereafter appear, that any material information has been withheld, or that any of the matters set forth have not been truly and fairly stated, then all monies which shall have been paid on account of this Assurance shall be forfeited, and the Assurance itself shall be absolutely null and void: And further, that this Assurance shall be void, with forfeiture of the Premiums paid, in case of the said Assured being, or becoming, a Military or Naval Officer, or engaged in Military or Naval or Militia or in the Preventive Service, and exposed, professionally, to additional risk, in consequence of War or Foreign Service, in any part of the World other than the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, including Guernsey, Jersey, and their dependencies, or the Colony of Canada, unless by consent of, or agreement with, the Court of Directors of the said Company.

Provided likewise, and it is hereby declared to be the true intent and meaning of these presents, That the Capital Stock and Funds of the said Company, for the time being, shall alone be answerable for any demand thereupon, under or by virtue of this Policy; and that no claim or demand, under or by virtue of this Policy, shall lie against any person or persons other than the Partners of the said Company; and which Partners shall not, under any circumstances, be subject or liable to such demand, beyond the amount of his or her share or shares of the said Capital Stock or Funds — any thing in this Policy to the contrary notwithstanding.

And it is hereby further declared, That for the convenience of parties effecting Assurances in England, it shall be competent for them to sue the Company in any of the Courts of Record in London or Westminster, by service of the proper writ upon the Resident Director of the Company, at the Office in London.

In witness whereof, These presents are subscribed by three of the Directors, and the Manager and the seal of the Company set thereto, at Edinburgh, the first day of April One Thousand Eight Hundred and fifty nine years.
